FOREWORD

The following tax digests, recently deposited in the Department of Archives and History by the Hon. Wm. A. Wright, Comptroller-General of Georgia, and the only records of this character to be found in the Capitol, are hereby offered the public in the expectation of meeting, to some degree at least, the loss suffered in the burning of the 1790, 1800 and 1810 census reports for Georgia when Washington was destroyed by the British in 1814. This loss has been the more keenly felt by historians and genealogists for the reason that for 9 of the 13 original Colonies these reports do exist and the 1790 records have long been in print. The population of Georgia in 1790 was 82,548 persons, divided as follows: Free white males of 16 years and upward, 13,103; free white males under 16 years, 14,044; free white females, 25,739; all other free persons, 398; slaves, 29, 264. Given herewith for the 1790 decade are full returns for the counties of Camden (1794), Glynn (1794), Warren (1794) and Montgomery (1798), and incomplete records for Wilkes County for 1792, 1793 and 1794, showing some 2800 tax payers (not counting the Wilkes County 1793 report since that territory was largely incorporated in Warren County by the Act of Creation, December, 1793), practically all of whom were heads of families. An additional word regarding the Wilkes County digests may prove of interest. The census of 1790 gave to this county approximately 36000 persons. Following the creation of Elbert County from Wilkes territory in December, 1790, Wilkes was laid out into 3 regiments of militia (comprising 37 companies), commanded by Colonel Samuel Alexander, Colonel Holeman Freeman, and Colonel John Dooly. In the spring of 1792 the regiments of Colonels Freeman and Dooly were divided and the 4th and 5th regiments commanded by Colonel John Graves and Colonel John Clark, respectively, were formed. Oglethorpe County, however, had been cut from Wilkes, December 19, 1793, and Warren County from Wilkes, Richmond and Columbia on the same date, so that in 1794 Wilkes had been reduced to 2 and a part regiments.
